

WHO ARE YOU AND WHAT ARE YOU DOING HERE?

It's a good thing Tahverlee Mills loves wrapping presents because she's certain to have her hands full this season.

Not only does she wrap up her gifts for others, for the past five years Mills has been volunteering at the Epilepsy Toronto gift wrapping booth in the Eaton's Centre.

"It's fun," she says, noting her favourite treat to get holiday ready. "I love wrapping the big Toblerone bars."

Mills has a 10-year-old son with epilepsy and became involved with Epilepsy Peel Region seven years ago. She particularly enjoys getting involved with fundraisers because it gives her a chance to tell others about the organization and how it helps so many people throughout the GTA.

While Mills gets to put crafty skills to work to help benefit Epilepsy Toronto, she says some gifts are particularly challenging to wrap.

"We've wrapped TVs. We wrapped a sled. The hardest things to wrap are things that are odd shapes," she says.

The gift wrapping station is located near the guest services booth and volunteers like Mills will be there through until Christmas. Wrapping is done by donation.

— If you've seen someone around town you'd like to know more about, e-mail Kate Schwass at kate.schwass@sunmedia.ca

